Languages of survival and pain - how do torture survivors speak of the unspeakable?

This Bilingual Forum will take place via Google Meet (click on the link above).

The Forum session will focus on the linguistic issues for torture survivors and the implications for mental health practice.

The 90-minute session will be divided into two parts.

First, a presentation and interview with Dr Sally Cook about her research on the language choices of torture survivors within a therapeutic community. In the second part, there will be an interview with Nathalie Talbot, an interpreter with many years of experience interpreting for survivors of torture. A reading list will be available after the event.

The session will be view-only, so please can you MUTE your microphones when you join the meeting.

There will, though, be an opportunity for attendees to submit questions via the chat function. For those not familiar with Google Meet, if you want to see the presenters, click on the three dots in the bottom right hand corner, choose Change Layout and then select Sidebar.
